

Wikipedia Article Microsite – Notes from Initial Build Discussion

Creative Director: Lily Sun | Designer/Developer: Natalie Klaas

What's Working Well

- Overall structure of the site is clear and aligns with the planned concept
 - Super similar to the initial mockups (which were great!)
- Content on additional pages (story.html and character.html) are outlined and implemented (just not yet connected to the home page)
- The foundation of the microsite is really strong and ready for styling/further development

Areas for Improvement / Open Considerations

- The site isn't responsive yet and will need to be adapted for different screen sizes
- Could add additional images/graphics to home page to make it feel more engaging/complete

Character.html

- Could incorporate a modal feature for character details to create a more interactive experience

Story.html

- Could include a gallery component to better visualize key scenes or moments from the film

Potential Challenges

- Implementing responsiveness across image-heavy/text-heavy layouts without breaking visual design
- Maintaining consistency in styling and navigation across multiple pages

Next Steps

- Begin implementing responsive design
- Add interactive features (modal, gallery) to improve interactivity
- Expand homepage content with additional visuals
- Incorporate/finish styling for all pages